

APPENDIX 7

FEDERAL TAXATION MATERIALS

This appendix is limited to statutory, judicial, and administrative sources. Cite tax treaties and secondary sources relating to taxation—such as treatises, books, legal periodicals, and looseleaf services—using the general rules for those sources in the Manual.

This appendix is divided into the following sections:

- A. Statutory Compilations
- B. Courts and Reporters
 - 1. Trial Courts Where Federal Tax Cases Are Heard
 - 2. Appellate Courts for Federal Tax Cases
 - 3. Unreported Opinions
- C. Administrative Materials
 - 1. Administrative Announcements
 - 2. I.R.S. Compilations
 - 3. Officially Published I.R.S. Pronouncements
 - 4. Publicly Released I.R.S. Pronouncements
 - 5. Taxpayer Forms and Publications

A. Statutory Compilations

Although the Internal Revenue Code is located in Title 26 of the United States Code, tax courts and practitioners typically cite the separate Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.).

When citing material within the Internal Revenue Code, include the abbreviation “I.R.C.,” a section symbol followed by one space, and the section number; and enclose the date in parentheses. See Sidebar A7-1 for additional information on the date. Practitioners sometimes do not include the year if citing the current version of the I.R.C.; however, a date is encouraged.

If citing an unofficial version of I.R.C., such as the I.R.C. that appears within the United States Code Annotated or the United States Code Service, include the publisher’s name before the date.

If citing a portion of the I.R.C. that no longer is in effect, follow Rule 14.3, except enclose in a separate parenthetical the year of the version of the I.R.C. under which the section was promulgated. For additional information on citing federal statutes, consult Rule 14.

Examples

- Official version: I.R.C. § 165(g) (2000).
- Unofficial version: I.R.C. § 212 (West 1995 & Supp. 2002).
- Repealed section: I.R.C. § 275(c) (1939) (repealed 1954).

SIDEBAR A7-1VERSIONS OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

The current Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.) was enacted in 1986 and applies to transactions occurring after October 22, 1986. Other versions since 1900 were the I.R.C. of 1939 (which applies to most transactions that occurred between January 1, 1939 until August 16, 1954), and the I.R.C. of 1954 (which applied to income tax transactions that occurred on or after January 1, 1954, to estate tax matters that occurred after August 16, 1954, and to gift tax transactions that occurred on or after January 1, 1955; it applied until the 1986 I.R.C. was enacted).

B. Tax Courts and Reporters1. Trial Courts Where Federal Tax Cases Are Heard*United States District Courts

The official reporters are the Federal Reporter (F., F.2d) through 1931 and the Federal Supplement (F. Supp., F. Supp. 2d) after 1931. Cite the official reporter when available. See Rule 12.6(a) for proper citation format.

Unofficial reports are American Federal Tax Reports (A.F.T.R., A.F.T.R.2d) and United States Tax Cases (U.S.T.C.). Cite A.F.T.R. cases by initial and pinpoint page numbers (Rule 5); cite U.S.T.C. cases by paragraph number and pinpoint page number. Consult Rule 12.21 for short citation formats.

Examples of unofficial reporter citations

United States Tax Court (1942 to present)

The official reporter, United States Tax Court Reports (T.C.), publishes regular decisions that generally concern novel and important tax issues. From 1942–1968, the court was called the Tax Court of the United States and the reporter was titled Tax Court of the United States Reports (T.C.). Cite the official reporter when possible.

Follow the guidelines in Rule 12.1 regarding case citations: provide the italicized case name, the volume number, the reporter abbreviation, the initial page, the pinpoint page, and the year enclosed in parentheses. Consult Rule 12.21 for short citation formats.

Example Hackl v. Commr., 118 T.C. 279, 288 (2002).

Tax Court regular decisions also are available in the following unofficial reporters. Use the examples below to develop citations. Regarding the date, material in looseleaf reporters typically requires an exact date; material in bound volumes requires only a year. Consult Rule 28 for additional information on citing looseleaf reporters.

Tax Court memorandum decisions (T.C.M.) are Tax Court opinions that typically concern fact-based cases with well-settled legal issues. Unofficial versions are published by CCH, PH (before April 15, 1991), and RIA (after April 15, 1991). Note: The 1990–1991 volume was published by Maxwell Macmillan (MM); use the same citation format, but use (MM) in place of (PH).

SIDEBAR A7-2

CASE NAMES IN OLDER TAX AUTHORITIES

Some older tax authorities use the administrative style of the case—the plaintiff's full name in place of the adversarial case name. In these situations, it is preferable to convert the case name to an adversarial style, such as the hypothetical Plaintiff v. Commr.

United States Court of Federal Claims (Oct. 29, 1992 to present)

The official reporter is the Federal Claims Reporter (Fed. Cl.). Unofficial reporters for the court are American Federal Tax Reports (A.F.T.R., A.F.T.R.2d) and United States Tax Cases (U.S.T.C.), examples of which appear above under United States District Courts. Cite the official reporter when possible. Consult Rule 12.21 for short citation formats.

2. Appellate Courts for Federal Tax Cases

Decisions of United States District Courts and the United States Tax Court are appealed to the appropriate U.S. Court of Appeal—which cases are reported in the Federal Reporter (F., F.2d, F.3d)—and ultimately to the United States Supreme Court (U.S.). See Rule 12.1 for information about how to cite these cases. In addition, both circuit courts of appeal and U.S. Supreme Court cases are unofficially reported by American Federal Tax Reports (A.F.T.R.,

A.F.T.R.2d) and United States Tax Cases (U.S.T.C.). United States Supreme Court cases are also published by the I.R.S. in its semiannual Cumulative Bulletin (C.B.) and its weekly Internal Revenue Bulletin (I.R.B.), which are described below in 7, Part C. Cite the official reporter when possible. Consult Rule 12.21 for short citation formats.

3. Unreported Opinions

Slip opinions: To cite unreported opinions available only in a separately paginated slip opinion, refer to Rules 12.18 and 12.21(e).

Electronic Databases: Use Rule 38 to cite a case that is unreported but available on an electronic database like LEXIS or Westlaw.

C. Administrative Materials

1. Administrative Announcements

Treasury Regulations (Treas. Reg.): Include the source abbreviation, section symbol followed by one space, and a section number; enclose the year of promulgation in parentheses.

The numbering scheme for final Treasury Regulations has three parts: the first number, which precedes the decimal point, represents the type of tax—for example: “1” for income tax regulations (see Sidebar A7-3 for additional information)—the second number, which follows the decimal point, corresponds to the Internal Revenue Code section; and the third number, which follows a hyphen, corresponds to the order of codification. Treasury Regulations also may be cited to title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations, which is discussed in Rule 19.1.

Examples Treas. Reg. § 1.471-2(c) (1983).

26 C.F.R. § 1.701-1 (2001).

Proposed Treasury Regulations (Prop. Treas. Reg.): Add “Prop.” to the designation for Treasury Regulations; whenever possible, provide a parallel citation to the Federal Register, which is discussed in Rule 19.3. Use an exact date for proposed regulations.

Example Prop. Treas. Reg. § 1.162-26, 52 Fed. Reg. 22716 (June 15, 1987).

Temporary Treasury Regulations (Treas. Reg.): Cite like a final Treasury Regulation, but include a “T” after the section number (but before any subsection); whenever possible, provide a parallel citation to the Federal Register, which is discussed in Rule 19.3.

Example Treas. Reg. § 1.469-5T(a), 53 Fed. Reg. 5725 (Feb. 25, 1988).

2. I.R.S. Compilations

Cumulative Bulletin (C.B): The Cumulative Bulletin is published semiannually and serves as a compilation of Internal Revenue Bulletins, which are described below. The Cumulative Bulletin also contains notices of disbarment of individuals practicing before the I.R.S., as well as listings of I.R.S. acquiescence or nonacquiescence to court decisions. Additional volumes are published in years when major tax legislation is passed. When choosing between I.R.B. and C.B., cite C.B. when possible.

From 1919–1921, citations to C.B. are to the volume number and also include the source abbreviation, an initial page number, a pinpoint page number when appropriate, and the year enclosed in parentheses.

Acquiescence: The I.R.S. reviews tax decisions made by the courts and issues its own opinion in the Cumulative Bulletin (C.B.) and Internal Revenue Bulletin (I.R.B.) about whether it agrees with the decision. The opinion is published as either an acquiescence (acq.), which means that the I.R.S. will not contest the point in later cases, a nonacquiescence (nonacq.), which means that the I.R.S. will not appeal but will not follow the decision with other taxpayers, or an acquiescence in result (acq. in result), in which the I.R.S. agrees with the result of the decision, but disagrees with one or more stated reasons.
